Beer List

Some helpful descriptions . . .

ALE	Fermented at cool temperatures, usually in the 60s, are finished in a week or two and have a fuller flavor than lagers.
BOCK	The first beer that is drawn in the spring from the vats. Strong in flavor and dark in color.
HEFEWEIZEN	German for "yeast-wheat". Rich, smooth and refreshing.
LAGER	Fermented with a different strain of yeast at cold temperatures (around 40 degrees), tend to be cleaner, less complex, are not as fruity and can take several months to age.
LAMBIC	A fruit fermented style of wheat beer unique to Belgium.
MICRO-BREWED or CRAFTED BEERS	Produced in small batches in order to preserve the unique flavor and quality.
PILSNER	Golden colored, dry, and mild in flavor.
PORTER	Dark ale brewed with a roasted, bittersweet taste. A lighter-bodied companion to stout.
STOUT	An extra dark, almost black, top-fermented brew. Full flavored, hearty, roasted malt.

"Beer's intellectual. What a shame so many idiots drink it."

Ray Bradbury
